Terms and Conditions

The information contained on this site is for educational and informative purposes only. This information must not be taken as medical advice, diagnosis or treatment. Pfizer Chile recognizes that the Internet is a means of global communication; nevertheless, the pharmaceutical industry is subject to each country’s specific regulations.

About use of the information

The material contained on this Internet site is only and exclusively for informative purposes. The authors of the information found on this Internet site, as well as any subsidiary company, affiliated and/or belonging to the same economic interest group as Pfizer Chile (hereinafter “PFIZER”), and/or any other person or institution that intervenes or has intervened in its preparation, dissemination and/or are involved in any other way with it, are in no way responsible for its content and use, or for decisions or actions taken based on the content of this information, and likewise it cannot be taken in any way as final or specific advice, since the individual conditions for each case where it will be used, may change or be different. All use and/or application of the information contained on this Internet site shall be the exclusive responsibility of whoever uses this information. The authors of the information contained on this Internet site, PFIZER, and/or any other person or institution that intervenes or has intervened in its preparation, dissemination and/or are involved in any other way with it, reserve the right to update, cancel and/or in any way modify at any time the entire or partial content of this information without prior notice and free of any responsibility.

About the Intellectual and Industrial Property Rights

All the information, materials, brands, designs, logotypes, files and/or implicit data contained or referred to on this Internet site are the property or are under exclusive license for their use by their respective owners, and shall not be used in any way, including for possible redistribution, sale, reproduction, modification, exploitation or use, for any other purpose than for the informative aims of this Internet site.

Links with Sites that Belong to or are the Responsibility of Third Parties

The information services of this Internet site may contain links so that the user can exit the section under review and access other Internet sites of interest that are controlled by or belong to people or institutions different from PFIZER. These sites are not under PFIZER’s control and, therefore, PFIZER is not responsible for the content and/or use of any other site linked to this Internet site and the fact that the user can link to other sites of interest or that are related with the topic which he/she is accessing, is only for the purposes of offering more efficient access.
PFIZER is not responsible for any error, omission, content or use of the sites or pages that are linked to this Internet site, and the user who enters these sites accepts that he/she does so under his/her own responsibility. PFIZER lets the users of this Internet site know that the information about or concerning those medical events that may be referred to here, is the exclusive responsibility of the respective organizers in each case, and these events or related information may be cancelled or modified without prior notice and with no responsibility on PFIZER’s part.